

QUES:- Why did the 'Moderates' fail to carry conviction with the nation about their proclaimed ideology and political goals by the end of the nineteenth century?

Ans : (Keywords – 'carry conviction', 'political ideology', 'objectives')

Moderate leaders were pioneer in modern politics in India. As the representative of nation they presented petitions and sent memorials to the British government with an objective to promote national interest of India but their elitist affiliation did not allow them to carry the common people with them.
